

VETERANS ARRIVE IN SPRINGFIELD

Guests of Honor at Banquet Given by Wilcox Post, G. A. R.

MAN ATTACKED AND ROBBED

Outing Proposed for Orphans in Methodist Female Asylum.

Times-Dispatch Bureau, 100 North Sycamore Street, Petersburg, Va., July 2.

Wireless telegrams sent out to-day from the steamship Jefferson at sea represented the Confederate veterans of A. P. Hill Camp as well and happy. Later telegrams brought the information of the safe arrival of the veterans in New York and of their departure for Springfield, Mass., the point of their destination. To-night they were given a banquet by their hosts, Wilcox Post, G. A. R. To-morrow morning and evening they will attend church, and in the afternoon will be given an automobile ride through Springfield and to various points of interest. On Monday will begin the week's round of festivities.

Murderous Assault and Robbery. John Goodwyn, colored, about sixty years old, whose home is on Carter Street, was the victim of a murderous assault and robbery, committed by another negro, this morning. Goodwyn was employed as cook for some painters doing work for the Seaboard Air Line Railway, near the western limits of the city. He went to a nearby rest and was fully dressed, and as he was leaning over the spring he was struck a violent blow on the head by the head of a negro. His scalp was split by the blow and he was felled to the ground.

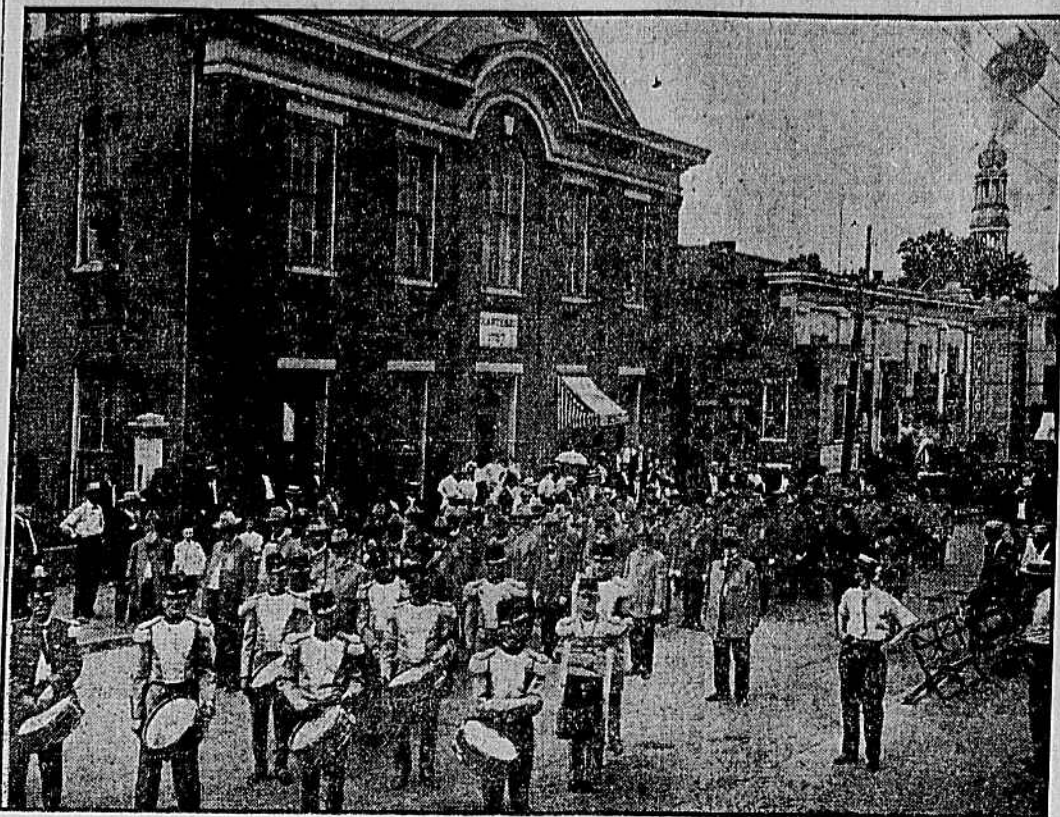

The assailant dragged Goodwyn into the bushes, threatened to kill him if he made an outcry, and struck him two more violent blows with a rock or some other instrument, and then robbed him of a watch valued at $20, and $15 in money. The injured man had to be taken to the hospital for treatment.

Goodwyn did not know the name of his assailant, but gave such an accurate description of him that within two or three hours he was under arrest and was fully identified. He was found by Chief Ragland and Detective Eames concealed in a Norfolk and Western freight car. The negro gave his name as Albert Walker, and from Pittsburg, Pa. The watch and most of the money were recovered, and about town for some time, and is believed to be the party who has recently committed several other highway assaults and robberies.

A joint meeting of the two branches of the Common Council, called for this evening to elect several city officers previously nominated in caucus, failed for lack of a quorum. As these officials do not go into office until September a future joint meeting will be held. The officers and men of the Police and Fire Departments begin their term on the 1st of July, as do the members of the Board of Overseers of the Poor.

Proposed Outing for Orphans. The Methodist Female Orphan Asylum has now thirteen little girls in its care. It has occurred to the trustees that it would be a good thing to make these orphans an outing for the month of August, and the proposition is made to the good people of the State that one or more of the children be taken into their families during the month, to contribute to the happiness of the little ones. During the existence of the asylum many little girls have grown into useful and happy workmen, and made the heads of worthy families. The good that the institution does can hardly be estimated.

News in Brief. A white woman, who gave her name as Mary Jones, accompanied by three small children, became stranded in this city yesterday on her way from Norfolk to Roanoke. She said her husband died in Norfolk several weeks ago, and that she was trying to reach the Salvation Army, took her in charge, furnished her with food and secured for her a ticket to Roanoke.

A valuable mule stolen last night from the farm of J. McS. Buchanan, in Dinwiddie county, was recovered in this city today, but the thief, a negro, made his escape. He was trying to sell the animal.

Robert A. Harding died last evening at his home on Pearl Street. He was thirty-one years old, and is survived by his wife and two small children, also a sister, Mrs. J. Cokes, of Richmond. The body will be taken to Concord, Va., for burial.

The Country Club has tendered its club house and grounds to the Salvation Army for the outing of the poor children of the city on July 6.

The department was called out to two small fires this afternoon, one of which destroyed an old stable on Lombard Street, Blandford, belonging to John Creyer, colored, $100. While at this fire an old shed on Fifth Street caught ablaze, supposedly from sparks. Damage here very light.

The Mont Airy Farm, of 220 acres, in Chesterfield county on the Appomattox River, was sold at auction this afternoon by T. Pannill's Sons, and was purchased by Pyle & Co., of this city, for $5,250.

GET GLORIOUS WELCOME. Band Plays "Dixie" and 100,000 Persons Witness Meeting of Blue and Gray. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Springfield, Mass., July 2.—The welcome seldom equaled in the history of any city was the ovation tendered the "boys in gray," who reached Springfield this evening from Petersburg. No body of men ever marched to more hearty cheers, and no happier men than the A. P. Hill Camp of Veterans could be found in the world over.

Although the fierce heat of the day had wilted the grizzled veterans, they beamed through the perspiration when the train pulled into Springfield. Their hosts, the E. K. Wilcox Post, G. A. R., were lined up at attention at the station, and a band was playing "Dixie" when the Virginians piled off the train. Then came personal greetings, when the hands of the Southerners, personal friends and strangers alike, were shook in their sockets, while thousands gathered about to witness the pretty sight. The meeting of the aged veterans was mingled with gladness and pathos. It was the half hour most memorable in the minds of the participants.

The March was then taken up to the Memorial Building, on Court Street. The officers of the Wilcox Post escorted the officers of Hill Camp, preceded by the drum corps, brought with them by the Virginians. The march was then taken up to the Petersburg Camp, eighty drums with heads erect and marching over the pavement with as firm and true a step as they did fifty years ago. Cheers rent the air, and prolonged cheering and raised hands met the advance of the flag of Virginia. Nearly a hundred thousand people viewed their march. The members of Wilcox Post brought up in the rear.

At Memorial Hall, a banquet was served to the visitors. There was music, cheers, stories, and a rollicking campaign of the men who once looked into each other's eyes across trenchments. There were speeches, and they were informal, and each speaker had tears in his eyes when his grizzled comrades of the line and the Gray burst forth into cheers. It was a campaign with oldtime vigor. To-morrow morning, at 10:30, all hands will march to Memorial Church, where special services will be held. Rev. Mark A. Denman preaching, and the choir singing a special musical programme. In the afternoon the Southerners will attend Wesley Methodist Church, where also special exercises will be held.

Monday the Petersburg men will march in the first division of the Fourth of July parade.

ARRIVE IN NEW YORK.

Veterans Pass Through Metropolis on Their Way to Springfield. New York, July 2.—The Old Dominion liner Jefferson warped into her dock early this afternoon with ninety white-haired, slouch-hatted men, all of whom were veterans of the Civil War, who came sprucely down the gang plank, preceded by a file and drum corps of eleven, including one who had beaten a drum in the last battle year of the Confederacy. They lined up in the street so that some of the newspaper photographers could take them standing as straight as their age would permit. All seemed to be more than sixty-five, and a dozen were seventy or thereabouts. They carried only one flag—a big, new edition of the Stars and Stripes. The grizzled color-bearer, who had at one time carried the right of an emblem, seemed to be very proud of the bunting of the Union.

Just after the veterans had been photographed they got into three Fifth Avenue auto stages, and with the drums and files making the hearts of folks on the route thrill with the war-time tunes, they were sent up to the Grand Central Station, taking a special car attached to the 4 o'clock train for Springfield, Mass. They were met by the guests of E. K. Wilcox Post, Grand Army of the Republic, and will help them celebrate the Fourth of July. The Confederates are under command of Colonel George S. Bernard, a judge in Petersburg who earned his military title in the Civil War, and is seventy-four years of age. Other elderly men in the camp are A. E. Harwood, who lost his arm in 1864, and who is seventy-three, and E. A. Ennis, who is also seventy-three.

The veterans were greeted at the pier and escorted to the hotel by Commander James R. Anderson, of the Massachusetts, G. A. R., and Meredith Leitch, a Southerner, who has been for some time a citizen of Springfield, and who is a lawyer.

PRIMARY ACTION RATIFIED.

Democratic County Convention in Salisbury—Murphy for Congress. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Salisbury, N. C., July 2.—The action taken in the Democratic primaries held in Rowan county last Saturday, was ratified by the Democratic county convention held in Salisbury.

The convention took no action as nominees for State offices. The only contest in the convention was for places on the County Board of Commissioners, which was settled amicably by the voters.

The nominees named include the following: For State Senate, A. H. Boyden; for the House, W. D. Bethel and T. D. Coleman; county judge, B. B. Miller; prosecuting attorney, Kerr Craig; clerk of Superior Court, J. Frank McCubbin; register of Wills, E. H. Miller; sheriff, H. McKenzie. The convention endorsed Judge Walter Clark for Chief Justice of the State Supreme Court, and P. D. Walker for Associate Justice.

Judge Manning and Judge Allen were given fourteen and five votes respectively by the Association of Justices of the Supreme Court. Endorsements were also given H. C. Brown for Corporation Commissioner, R. Lee Wright, for judge in the tenth district; W. C. Hammer, for solicitor in the tenth district; Walter Murphy, an endorsement for Congress from the Eighth district.

JEFFRIES FACES BITTER DEFEAT

question many are asking. There is an answer, of course. Jeffries is a far better man than Sullivan when the latter fell at New Orleans. Jeffries has rugged courage and strong temperament. He is heart and soul in the fight and will make a supreme effort to win at any cost. No matter how much he is harmed, he knows that all the blows will not be half as bad as the sting of defeat. If he loses he will curse the day he ever let them persuade him to re-enter the ring, and he is going to make a heart-breaking effort to prevent that happening. This knowledge will make him fight harder, and he will profit by his tremendous strength. If he wins this fight it will be because in his prime he was twice as good a man as the negro.

Johnson is easy going and has not concentrated on the battle the way Jeffries has. It is just possible that he will not make such a stubborn fight of it, for there are many who insist that the negro lacks in the "do-or-die" nerve.

I would not, however, bet on this, for he looks like a man who would take a beating.

When you look at Jeffries you can hardly avoid sharing the confidence of his men in his ability to win. His mighty body, that short, bull neck, determined face, are all the kind of requisites that make for an athlete's triumph.

But it must be remembered that Johnson is an impressive specimen, too. Jeffries will make a fight for one blow. He thinks the right kind of a punch will stop Johnson, and in support of this view it must be recalled that Johnson is a man who has dropped the big negro for the count.

To get in that one blow Jeff will endure anything in suffering.

If Johnson can fight as well as he can box, there will be a terrific struggle. Neither man met such a big man before, and in his prime Jeff had his work cut out to beat Sharkey and Corbett.

Can he do it now? I dare not say, but I wish it were all over and Jeff had won.

WAS POPULAR CITIZEN OF POWHATAN COUNTY

Preparations Complete for Historical Pageant at University of Virginia.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Charlottesville, Va., July 2.—Preparations are almost complete for the big pageant to be held at the University of Virginia by the students of the Summer School on Monday, July 4.

WILLIAM S. GOODE.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Powhatan, Va., July 2.—William S. Goode died at his residence at Powhatan Courthouse on June 28. Mr. Goode was born in this county on April 4, 1856, and was the son of the late John B. Goode, formerly sheriff of Powhatan county and a member of the famous Goode family, whose home place, "Whitby," is one of the State's most celebrated homes. He himself held many public offices, and at the time of his death was Commissioner of the Revenue, an office which he had held for the last eleven years.

While quite young he married Miss Anna Davis, who, together with seven children—Mrs. Wm. H. Gills, Cecile L. Goode, Annie B. Goode, Dallas B. Goode, William O. Goode, Harvie W. Goode and Wirt A. Goode—survive him. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Ernest Goode, of Chesterfield county, and three brothers—L. C. Goode, of Greenville, Miss.; R. R. Goode, of Richmond, and Herschel Goode, of Chesterfield county.

His funeral took place from Mount Harmon Church, Chesterfield county, on the 28th of June. He was buried in the family section by the side of his father and others of his ancestry, in whom he took a just, though not obtrusive, pride, and to whose high standards his own life kept time.

WALES FIGHTS FOR PLACE ON THE ROYAL STANDARD

Seems Simple, but Consequent Changes in Empire Would Cost $15,000,000.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.] London, July 2.—The claim of Wales to heraldic representation on the royal standard has again cropped up at the outset of the reign of King George, as it did on the accession of King Edward. The Prime Minister has now promised that the claim of the Welsh members to have the Welsh dragon emblazoned on the royal standard shall be laid before the King. The members are indifferent whether the dragon or the lion is adopted as the symbol of Wales, but it is pointed out that Welsh sentiment in recent times has favored the dragon. It would appear, however, that the Welsh members have under-estimated the magnitude of the change which they propose. The suggestion that, instead of England monopolizing two of the quarters of the royal standard, one should be given up to Wales, seems simple enough, but the actual entail consequent changes in the royal arms throughout the King's service, before which even the stoutest innovator might well pause. Every military button would have to be altered; and it is computed that the cost of the addition suggested would amount to something like $15,000,000.

Honors Are Awarded. Oxford, July 2.—Several American Rhodes scholars have been awarded honors for the past collegiate year. F. D. Metzger, of Washington, takes first class honors in school jurisprudence; F. D. Griffiths, of California; F. E. Hohmann, of Utah; and W. T. Stockton, and R. E. Blake, of Tennessee; S. B. Baylock, of Washington, third class; R. W. Burgess, of Rhode Island, took third class in school mathematics.

Killed in Spanish Riot. Muro, Spain, July 2.—One man was killed and many were hurt in rioting between clericals and anti-clericals in the village of Centi. The rioting resulted from a strong sermon program, which a priest delivered at mass.

1,200 WILL TAKE PART IN PAGEANT

Preparations Complete for Historical Pageant at University of Virginia.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Charlottesville, Va., July 2.—Preparations are almost complete for the big pageant to be held at the University of Virginia by the students of the Summer School on Monday, July 4.

Last year a pageant was held on the same date, which attracted attention not only locally, but all over the South. There were nearly 1,000 people in the procession, composed to represent prominent characters of Colonial days.

The historical pageant, to be presented at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon, will be even more elaborate than last year, and the costumes will be more appropriate. It will include impersonations of the great Revolutionary figures and events, representatives of the thirteen original Colonies, and of the later counties of the Old Dominion, besides representatives of other States entering the Union subsequently to the thirteen original Colonies, and of the country's allies and possessions. Fully 1,200 persons will be in the procession, and thirty or more States will be represented, while it is expected that every county in Virginia will have a group.

Marching in imposing procession, and with appropriate evolution from one end of the lawn to the other, the vast pageant will form a hollow square in front of the rotunda, where the scene of the Continental Congress will be enacted, followed by an elaborate Revolutionary minute in conclusion.

At 9 o'clock Monday evening the Summer School dance will be held in the Fayerweather gymnasium. This dance is given by the officials to the women of the Summer School. Those persons in the pageant who will attend the dance are expected to appear in the costumes worn in the procession in the afternoon. This should make the dance a very pretty affair for the on-lookers.

APPEAL IS GRANTED IN HOSPITAL CASE

Power of State to Take Money Granted for One Purpose and Use It for Another to Be Tested.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Staunton, Va., July 2.—The Supreme Court of Appeals in May granted an appeal from a decision of Judge Carter Scott, of the Circuit Court of Richmond, in the case of the Western State Hospital Board vs. the General Board of State Hospitals for the insane.

The case involved the power of the State to take under acts of Legislature of 1906 and 1908 property willed by Sidney R. Murchland, of Lynchburg, to the Western State Hospital, the income to be used to buy extras for the patients, and use it toward establishing a colony for epileptics in Amherst county, near Lynchburg. Judge Scott did not rule on the merits of the case, but that court has no jurisdiction. Unless set forward in case will be heard in Richmond in November. The matter is attracting great interest throughout the State.
